BON HOMME IS A SURPRISE.

SUBSTITUTED FOR HIGH PRIVATE HE TAKES THE MAIDEN STAKES EASILY.

Priscillian Wins and Is Voted a High-Class Three-Year-Old—Personal First Again and Is Bid Up.

New York, May 14.—In addition to breeding good horses and selling them for fancy prices, Fred Forsythe can be depended upon to turn as neat a trick in placing them to the best advantage as the most astute horseman now in the business. Ample evidence of this was forthcoming with the running of the Maiden Stakes at Belmont Park today. High Private, which had earned the reputation of being a high-class colt by his two successful races, was named as an overnight entry by Mr. Forsythe. The other youngsters entered were maidens, some of which were racing for the first time. On paper the race seemed like a gift for High Private, but he was withdrawn and Bon Homme added to carry the colors of the Kentucky turfman. With High Private out, the prize was made Statesman an even-money choice and the public went pell mell to him in the early betting. Statesman, a grand-looking colt by Kinley Mack—Janice, had been industriously touted all winter and spring as one of the best youngsters on Long Island and the support for him was the natural result. Few stopped to figure that Mr. Forsythe would not have withdrawn High Private and added Bon Homme without good reasons. Shrewdly, Bon Homme and this was not supposed to help his chances and 8 to 1 was the early quotation. But it did not last long, for a legion of followers suddenly appeared and the colt was backed to 3 1/2 to 1, while Statesman went to 7 to 5. It was a well planned coup and went through according to schedule. Bon Homme, which looks like a good race horse and appeared to be very fit, won all the way easily. Then it was recalled that there was a colt in Mr. Forsythe's barn which was supposed to be much better than High Private, but the recollection came too late for the majority. Mr. Forsythe and his friends cleared up handsomely and it is the general belief that he introduced a real smart two-year-old.

The condensed history of the Maiden Stakes is as follows:

Year.	Winner.	Wt.	Jockey.	Val.	Time.
1905	Gallivant	115	Travers	$1,650	1:01 1/2
1906	Master Lester	115 1/2	W. Miller	1,900	1:01 1/2
1907	Transvaal	115 1/2	W. Miller	1,950	1:00 1/2
1908	Bon Homme	115	Shreve	1,885	1:01

There was a decided slump in affairs today, a condition that generally follows such a tremendous outpouring as that of the opening day. The card was ordinary and there was a complete shift in the weather, which savored strongly of winter. The thunder shower which visited Long Island during the early morning hours left the track quite heavy, but scratches were not numerous.

Aside from the stake race the chief attraction was the handicap at one mile and a sixteenth, for which Priscillian gave big weight to some fair horses and won with the greatest ease. That he is a good three-year-old seems certain, but so far he has not met the highest class horses. There is much desire to see him measure strides with some of the cracks of his own age. Dandelion was a starter in this race, but made a poor showing and probably needs more racing or work to fit him.

Brecken, out for the first time this season, could not concede the weight asked of her in the handicap for mares, but showed a good turn of speed and should do better under more favorable conditions.

In the closing race Faust fell at the end of three furlongs, but Flynn, his rider, escaped with a bruised hip and leg. Troublemaker appeared to be responsible for the accident, but it is possible that Flynn was trying to take the horse through a small opening. The stewards were unable to fix the blame and no penalties were imposed.

Personal won the fourth race in a large field, making her sixth winning effort. Entered to be sold for $1,200, she was bid up to $2,000 by J. C. Goode, but was bought in by her owner.

Jockeys Musgrave and McDaniel were not riding today, as both are on the ground for four days for misbehavior at the post in the closing race Wednesday.

Andrew Miller, who has just signed Musgrave, had a chapter of hard luck tales in connection with Metropolitan Handicap day. McArter was cut off and beaten in the big event. Musgrave was suspended. Mr. Miller was himself "pinched" in a speeding auto on his way home, and later in the evening sprained his hand in a scuffle with a friend. He is glad, however, that it all ended so quickly.

Phil Chinn has taken the contract on jockey Flynn and believes the youngster will soon be able to fill Musgrave's place as principal rider for the stable.

Frank O'Neill, of the B. & O. Stable, will take ten two-year-olds to the northern circuit. His campaign there will begin with the Toronto meeting.

M. Hogan will ship the steeplechasers Agent and The Knight to Toronto.

The champion sprinter, Roseben, has been de-throned. In the weights for the Toboggan Handicap Mr. Voshburgh puts 137 on Jack Atkin and 130 on Roseben, which is next in the assignment.

ZIEGLER HORSES TO RACE IN THE EAST.

Henry M. Ziegler, the Cincinnati theatrical manager, who finds much interest in the turf, was a recent visitor to Highland Farm near Lexington, where he has a number of finely-bred youngsters in training. After a conference with Charles Hughes, who has them in charge, he decided to send them east, where they promise to be heard from during the summer and fall. Most of the string is made up of two-year-olds which have not faced the barrier, but which have been doing very satisfactory work at the private track at Highland Farm.

Mr. Ziegler, during his association with the turf, has owned some of America's most famous racers, the mighty Hermis, which did his early racing under the Ziegler colors and under the training of Mr. Hughes, being the most celebrated. It was Mr. Ziegler who sold Hermis to E. R. Thomas for $60,000.

THE KING'S COLT AND SUPERSTITION.

There is neither rhyme nor reason for opposing Perrier for the Derby because he has won the Newmarket Biennial; but, all the same, a gruesome history attaches to the Biennial winners, as far as the Derby is concerned, and we are almost superstitious enough to wish that he had not won, or, rather, that he had not run. As matters stand, the history of the Newmarket Biennial may not be lacking in interest, and we trust that the time has come for the luck to take a turn.—The Sporting Times.

BETTING AND ITS STATUS IN LAW.

An Able Dissection of Its Moral Aspect and Misdirected Statutes Hostile to It.

John R. Dos Passos, a lawyer of high standing and practice in New York, has prepared and printed in the New York Sun his opinion and views on the general question of gambling under the laws of the state, and suggested that the best test would be a popular vote on the abolition of race track gambling.

Discussing the moral question involved, Mr. Dos Passos said:

"So far as my observations are concerned few public officials in the state of New York have treated the subject of gambling with frankness and broadness—I was going to say intelligence. The mere politician, regardless of the inherent nature of the question, shapes his views to meet temporary sentiment. The clergyman attunes his sermons in the impracticable key of absolute annihilation of this vice. The result is mistakes by legislators and officials who have to deal with it and utter misapprehension by the general public. To the legislator truly anxious for the welfare of the people nothing offers more difficulty than the treatment of the subject of gambling. It is a vice inherent in the human system. It is not what is called a crime 'malum in se', wrong in itself, but it is sometimes declared to be an offense because the predominant moral sense of the community condemns it as detrimental to its welfare, as swarting, expectorating in public places, violation of the building laws and the like acts are forbidden. Crimes 'malum in se' imply inherent moral turpitude; those 'malum prohibitum,' such as gambling, imply misconduct. No writer of merit and distinction so far as my reading extends has ever claimed that in the abstract it is immoral to bet. Lecky, whose rank as a scholar and moral philosopher is indisputable, says: 'Gambling is not in itself a crime. Few moralists will pretend that a man is committing an immoral act if he stakes a few pence or shillings on a game of chance.' Jeremy Bentham, whom I may call the great legal diagnostician, advocates betting on certain lines. And wagers in general, by the common law, were lawful until the late 19th century in the state of New York, it is not a crime for individuals to gamble. In fact, gambling for small sums seems to be expressly sanctioned, because if one wins or loses less than $25 within twenty-four hours a recovery cannot be had under Section 341 of the Penal Code in a civil action for the benefit of the poor. If he loses or wins over $25 within such period he is liable to this penalty, but he commits no crime.

"Honest gambling is, by the statutes of New York, enforced, and cheating frowned upon, for under the 329th section of the Penal Code one who by fraud or false pretenses, while playing at any game or while having a share in any wager played for or while betting on the sides or hands of such a play, wins or acquires to himself or to any other a sum of money or other valuable thing, is guilty of a misdemeanor.

"Again, no law prevents a citizen from gambling in his own house. No officer can break into his castle and interfere with such an act, and no legislature would dare to make a law by which the privacy and sacredness of home life—domesticity—could be invaded. Such a licentious act—for it would be nothing else—would put an end to the fundamental principles of social organization, protecting personal security. But a citizen cannot commit a murder or robbery in his house; and this illustrates the distinction between crimes 'malum in se,' wrong in themselves, and acts 'malum prohibitum,' wrong because prohibited. That it is foolish for individuals to gamble who cannot afford to lose their money goes without argument, and that public gambling should be controlled by proper legislation is universally acknowledged. It is a venial act, however, and should be discriminatingly treated and mildly punished. 'Gambling is a principle in human nature.' It belongs to us all," says the immortal Burke.

Discussing the present state of the laws in this state insofar as they affect gambling, Mr. Dos Passos continued:

"The laws upon the subject of gambling in the state of New York are superfluous, inconsistent, and as well from that cause as from the indulgence and habits of the New York people, practically unenforceable. The constitution of New York provides: 'Nor shall any lottery or the sale of lottery tickets, pool selling, bookmaking or any other kind of gambling hereafter be authorized or allowed within this state; and the legislature shall pass appropriate laws to prevent offenses against any of the provisions of this section.' This is very broad language; and if the legislature, in its discretion, were to say an appropriate law to prevent these offenses would be the infliction of a fine or penalty of $5 for each offense, who could complain?

"Ask any member of the constitutional convention at which this article was framed for the history of its passage, and he will tell you that it was put forward as a mere piece of partisan bluff; and political side represented in the convention seeking to outdo its rival by a show of excessive virtue; and the gambling clause was cast forth without any particular advocacy by anybody and with no hope that it would ever be adopted by the people. Indeed, the provision should have found no place in the constitution at all, for the reason that a constitution of government is not a body of laws. To confuse them is to impair the authority of both. If that principle needed illustration the selection of such a subject as gambling in any of its forms would conspicuously afford it. To the student of institutions it reads like a travesty. As it is, the whole subject seems to be left to the discretion of the legislature, and this was the view adopted by the Court of Appeals.

"I argued the Stedeker and the Allen cases in the Court of Appeals. These cases had to do with the construction of the 351st section of the Penal Code, under which they were proceeded against. That law is a species of net which drags in all of the cases covered by antecedent sections, and undertakes to make the crimes of pool selling and bookmaking felonies. The distinction between misdemeanors and felonies in New York is that the former is punished by imprisonment in a penitentiary for one year or less, or a fine. After the imprisonment is over the law is satisfied. A felony is totally different. The convict is consigned to state prison. His character is tattooed for life with the brand of crime. He can never vote, one of the most important attributes of citizenship, nor can he ever hold any office of trust or profit.

"When the nature of the offense of gambling is considered, when it is compared with other crimes more heinous, the punishment and degradation attending its commission is out of all proportion—it throws the necessary grades and balances of crimes and punishment into complete disorder."

Asked his views of Governor Hughes' attitude, Mr. Dos Passos said:

"We find Governor Hughes, without taking heed of the subject as a whole—the inconsistencies and incongruous provisions of the law upon gambling—concentrating his whole personal and official influence to have all race track betting abolished and henceforth all acts of gambling connected therewith to be made felonies. I venture to believe,

GEMMELL UNEXPECTEDLY BADLY BEATEN.

Rain Leads to Defeated Favorites and Outsiders Take Most of the Races.

Oakland, Cal., May 14.—The Swinburne Handicap, at seven furlongs, named for another officer of the Atlantic battleship fleet, resulted in a big upset at Oakland today. Gemmell, the acknowledged local sprinting champion, was beaten by both The Mist and Orilene over a sloppy track in the comparatively slow time of 1:27 1/2. The Rubicon gelding, which started a heavily backed public choice, was thought to be invincible and his downfall spelled financial disaster for the majority of the big crowd present. Rettig, but recently springing into prominence as a successful jockey, rode Gemmell and rode him badly. Lack of alertness at the start and subsequent suicidal pace-making tactics presaged certain defeat before half of the journey had been covered.

W. (Cricket) Kelly's saddle victories were the outstanding feature of the afternoon's sport. The hitherto uncertain jockey scored on the solitary winning favorite, Entre Nous, and on two outsiders, Reformation and High Gun. He has suddenly jumped into popular favor and is the real thing in his line at present.

The Reis-Tigne-Sanford confederacy enjoyed a regular field day. Joseph Tigne trained all three of the horses, Entre Nous, Reformation and High Gun, owned by this combination.

The stewards announced that W. A. Ross, former trainer for Roy Offutt, who was ruled off a year ago in connection with the sudden rejuvenation of the horse Marshal Ney, has been reinstated.

Starter Richard Dwyer fined jockeys Boland and Mentry $10 apiece and set E. Sullivan down for three days in the first race. W. Kelly drew a $25 fine for misbehavior at the post in the third race and Walsh and Buxton were fined $25 each in the fourth. Kirschbaum was also suspended for three days.

The best of the T. H. Williams stable will be shipped to New York in charge of trainer Rowell, leaving here Sunday.

J. O. Keene is said to have designs on the Seattle Derby and is giving Boggs a special preparation for it. He is reported to have refused an offer of $3,500 for the colt.

Jockey Fischer is rapidly recovering from his recent illness and hopes to resume riding soon.

Thomas H. Williams told Walter Miller, who is chafing over his enforced long stay here, that he could leave for the east a week from next Sunday, which is two weeks less than originally contemplated.

Mr. Williams will sell a half dozen culls, Hamero, Altadice, El Payo, Walter Miller, Who and Adona, at auction a week from tomorrow.

Richard Dwyer's starting continues to be first-class and he is frequently applauded for his work.

DIOMED'S EXASPERATING RACING FAILURES.

There is a curious history attached to Diomed, the winner of the first Derby. In the year following that event he started for the principal stakes at Nottingham with long odds on him, and was beaten by Lord Grosvenor's Fortitude, a horse of far inferior antecedents. Some nasty remarks were made by the losers on the occasion, and Sir Charles Bunbury had a row with his jockey, which ended in the man's dismissal. In the same year, however, Diomed was beaten at Newmarket by the horse that had come in second to him in the first Derby, and in disgust Sir Charles refused to let him run in 1782. Next year Diomed started seven times, but won only once, and, falling lame, was put out of training and sent to the stud, where he was the sire of many illustrious colts and fillies. Finally he was sold for fifty guineas to an American, who, shortly after landing him in the States, sold him for thousands. And Diomed, who lived to the age of forty, became the father of the American turf, for there is scarcely a famous trotter or racer from Florida to Maine that does not trace its descent from the winner of the first Derby. As an instance, Foxhall, who in 1881 won the Grand Prix de Paris, the Cesarewitch and the Cambridgeshire, was a descendant of the mighty Lexington, one of the descendants of Diomed.

SOME NOTABLE HORSES OF ENDURANCE.

The famous English mare, Virago, won both the Metropolitan Stakes and City and Suburban in 1854, and three other horses accomplished this double.

In 1870 Sabinus, a fine stayer, won the City and Suburban by a length, and an hour later took the long-distance one by four lengths. Both races were contested on the same day for three years, although the Great Metropolitan was founded five seasons earlier than the "City."

In 1873 Mr. Brayley's five-year-old Mornington won the City and Suburban by three-quarters of a length from Cremorne. The next day, April 1, carrying six pounds extra, and ridden by Tom Cannon, he carried off the longer event by four lengths from a couple of great stayers in Dutch Skater and Uhan. On the same day jockey Mornington Cannon was born, and from the horse he got his name. The late Mr. P. Lorillard's American-bred gelding, Parole, was the only other animal to win both handicaps. He was then six years old, and Archer had the mount on each occasion. Castlereagh alone opposing him in the Great Metropolitan Stakes.

GREAT SPEED SHOWN BY UNCLE.

Some furtive clockers at Gravesend last Tuesday reported a sensational trial by S. C. Hildreth's three-year-old Uncle, which recently recovered from an attack of lameness. With a stable boy up Uncle was sent out to work an easy mile. But he had so much speed that he turned the first quarter in :22, three furlongs in :33 1/2, the half in :46 and the five-eighths in :59 1/2. Hildreth, in alarm, then turned to the boy to pull up so that Uncle turned the three-quarter post in 1:14, the seven-eighths in 1:29 1/2 and finished on the mile in slow time. Uncle was expected to make his appearance as an added starter in the Metropolitan, but Hildreth decided that he was not ready. Uncle has five more stake engagements at the present Belmont Park meeting, as follows:

May 19—Crotona Handicap, 3-4 mile.
May 22—Claremont Handicap, 6-1/2 furlongs.
May 23—Withers Stakes, 1 mile.
May 30—Belmont Stakes, 1-3/8 miles.
May 30—Cortlandt Handicap, 1-3/8 miles.
He is likely to start in the Crotona, Withers and Belmont.

RECORD FOR JUMPING RACE MISHAPS.

Eight horses were saddled for a steeplechase in France not long ago, and the race probably holds the record for mishaps. To begin with, two of the runners fell and one refused. The remaining five finished, but the three leaders were disqualified for going the wrong course, the rider of the fourth was found not to possess the qualifications necessary for a gentleman rider and the last horse was debarred from being declared the winner on account of some informality in his birth certificate.

NEW LOUISVILLE RECORDS.

GOLDPROOF AND THE MINKS EACH WIPE OUT OLD MARKS IN THEIR RACES.

Fundamental First in the Bashford Manor Stakes in a Thrilling Finish, but French Cook Was Best—Carew Wins.

Louisville, Ky., May 14.—In a furious drive through the last furlong, the entire field of six starters came to a finish necks apart in the Bashford Manor Stakes, the Churchill Downs feature offering this afternoon. Fundamental won from French Cook and the latter's stablemate, Woolwinder, took third money. French Cook was unquestionably the best youngster in the race, but was a sufferer from early interference. Time and again Burton, his rider, was forced to take him back when the leaders closed in on him. On the stretch he won a wide, losing much ground by the move, but it enabled him to secure a clear course. He came with a rush in the last furlong, but Fundamental held on gamely and lasted to the finish. Solicitor also ran a good race, coming from a long way back after a slow start. Von Bulow tired badly in the last furlong. The race was worth $1,415 net to the winner.

The tabulated history of the Bashford Manor Stakes is as follows:

Year.	Winner.	Wt.	Jockey.	Val.	Time.
1902	Von Rouse	118 1/2	J. Winkfield	$1,335	1:55 1/2
1903	J. P. Mayberry	118 1/2	H. Booker	1,485	1:55
1904	Osseau	121	Munro	1,360	1:54 1/2
1905	Gos. C. Bennett	118 1/2	Nicol	1,600	1:56 1/2
1906	Zal	118	Obert	1,720	1:56
1907	John Mairs	118	Troxler	1,570	1:54
1908	Fundamental	118	Heidel	1,415	1:54 1/2

Another good attendance was on hand to witness some fast and spirited racing. Two former track records were smashed. The first to be broken came in the second race when Goldproof set a new mark for the five and one-half furlongs by running the distance in 1:05 1/2. The former record was 1:06 1/2, made by Bessie Macken April 29, 1901. Goldproof, in his present good form, can beat the best sprinters in these parts and little surprise was manifested over his easy victory.

The mile and a sixteenth handicap also resulted in a new track record being established. The Mink landing the purse in 1:46, as against the old mark of 1:46 1/2. Only four started in this race with Cartilage most fancied over the others. The Williams horse, by his running, clearly showed a lack of preparation for, after forcing a fast pace for three-quarters, he quit badly and allowed the others to get far ahead. The Minks trailed leisurely for three-quarters, then moved up with a rush that carried him by Wool Sandals with ease and, after a slight shaking up, passed the finish a length in advance of Terah. The latter requires a strong rider to keep him hard at it and had Morgan been able to keep him prominent in the first half, would probably have been returned the winner.

T. C. McDowell secured his first purse of the meeting when his Serenade landed the opening race from a fair band of two-year-old fillies, including Lady Leota and Charlotte Hamilton.

Carew, the most heavily backed horse of the afternoon, was best of those starting in the fifth race, and won well in hand under a good ride from Powers. Bonebrake was Carew's closest attendant throughout and made several attempts to wear the winner down, but was not good enough.

J. S. Hawkins secured another purse when his Meada landed the closing race in a hard drive from Rustle, St. Hario, which finished third, but for a slow start and repeated interference, would probably have won. As it was, third was the best he could do.

Riceland, owned by Stone and Igoo, has been sold to a local transfer company, and will be broken to harness.

Returning horsemen from New York contend that racing there is not in danger of being curtailed by any future legislation, at least this year. They claim that should Governor Hughes urge the passage of a law that will endanger the sport, his measure will be defeated by at least four votes.

Horsemen are displaying a considerable interest in the special session of the Arkansas legislature recently called by the acting governor. It is thought that the Amis law will be one of the subjects for consideration, and it is possible that it is being predicted. Those who profess to know maintain that racing will positively take place at Hot Springs next winter.

RHINOCK DECLARES FOR THE MUTUELS.

Congressman Rhinock, one of the leading stockholders of the Latonia race track, declares for the mutuels. Mr. Rhinock is following the course of speculation under the pari-mutuel system at Louisville with much interest and he has decided that it is a good thing. The people who patronize Churchill Downs like it better than the old bookmaking system, Mr. Rhinock says, and there is no reason why it should not be put in force at Latonia. The Louisville mutuel machines are not the best in the world, either. They are not brand new and the totalizing scheme was at first defective.

Mr. Rhinock has cabled to France for twenty of the newest and most modern machines, equipped with the most recently patented totalizers. They are to be shipped to this country on a fast steamer, and they should be ready for service at Latonia. It is the intention of the Latonia management to bring over from the French tracks a couple of men who understand the manipulation of the machines in order that there may be no friction at Latonia.

Mr. Rhinock is inclined to think that the pari-mutuel has come into western racing to stay.

"What the people like best in the way of a betting scheme they are entitled to get," he said. "The Latonia management will not stand in their way. Personally I am inclined to favor the mutuel scheme of speculation. It does away with loose talk, because it removes the incentive for improper practice. It is demonstrated at Louisville that the mutuel machines can handle all the betting the patrons of Churchill Downs care to do and we are, of Latonia, not wedded to the old bookmaking system."

JACK ATKIN NOT IN THE BIG HANDICAPS.

Jack Atkin was entered in the Brooklyn, Suburban and Brighton Handicaps and was given 112 pounds in the Brooklyn and the Suburban and 111 in the Brighton. Unluckily and, in the case of the Brooklyn Handicap, unwisely he was declared from all three of the $25,000 races February 20. The Suburban and Brighton conditions embrace winning penalties, but the Brooklyn Handicap has none. Had he been left in this race at 112 pounds, it would now seem to be at his mercy. It is a case where one soft snap seems to have been thrown away.

QUEER ENGLISH ENDURANCE MATCHES.

Some Sporting Events Over Distances of Ground
in Days of Long Ago.

Thornbury, in the London Sportsman, writing
of equine endurance, tells these tales:
"A very extraordinary match was run at Northampton races in 1791, between a bay and a black pony, at two four-mile heats. The black was thirteen hands two and one-half inches high, the bay mare barely thirteen hands. They ran the first four miles, carrying 14st. each, in twelve minutes, the second in thirteen and one-half minutes. The odds were 10 to 8 on the black, which won by about half a length.

"A curious match was made at Epsom in 1795 for $525 between Mr. Grisewood's horse, Crop, and Mr. M. Harris' roan. Crop was to go 100 miles before the roan went 80. Crop ran his first twenty miles in one hour and a minute, but going around the eleventh time was nearly knocked up. The other was also so tired that he could not even trot.
After this they walked round the course with their riders on their backs, people going before them with bowls of oats and loafs of hay to entice them on.
By the time the roan had done his eighty miles
Crop had only accomplished ninety-four, and consequently lost.

"A Yorkshire clothier once for a wager rode his pony, which was well stricken in years and under thirteen hands high, eighty miles in eleven hours and fifty-five minutes on the Morpeth Road. The time allowed was thirteen hours. The man weighed 14st. 8 lb., the horse was only of the common cart-horse breed and had previously been used in that capacity, which renders the feat much more remarkable, and when it was over he seemed none
the worse for his exertion.

"A still more astonishing feat was performed many years ago by a horse which had never been bred to the business. A coachman weighing 14st.
was sent post haste from Arlington to Exeter for a physician, his master being dangerously ill. The distance is forty-seven miles, the road was then a bad one, and the horse accomplished it in forty-seven seconds under three hours.

"Mr. Cooper Thornhill of the Bell Inn, Stilton, made a match for a large sum to ride three times between Stilton and London—213 miles—in fifteen hours, no limit being placed on the number of horses
he might use. The feat was accomplished on April 29, 1745, and the following shows the result:

From Stilton to London ..... 3:52:59
From London to Stilton ..... 3:50:57
From Stilton to London ..... 3:49:56

"This was three hours, twenty-six minutes and eight seconds under the time allowed.

"In 1790 a gentleman drove a single horse chaise fifty miles on the Hertford Road in four hours and fifty-five minutes, the time allowed being five hours. In the same year a man rode from the fourth mile-stone on the Essex Road to Chelmsford twice and back again, one hundred miles, in fifteen hours and a half, though he had sixteen horses to do it in. Soon afterward Mr. Samuel Rendall, of Dursley, Gloucestershire, at the age of seventy-six, rode a thousand miles in a thousand consecutive hours on the same horse.

"A man has been known more than once to beat a horse in speed. In 1751 a noted pedestrian named Pinwire, for a bet of $250, walked against a horse for twelve hours and beat it easily. This was not the only time his two legs came off victorious against four; in several successive years he beat some of the best roadsters in England.

"The lady Mr. Edward Hayward Budd, one of the finest all-round athletes of his own or indeed,
any other day, and an especially good sprint
runner, tells the following story of how he was once matched to run against a horse. "One day after dinner a son of General Archdale offered to back his horse to do a hundred yards against me for $50. I entirely forgot the match until it was in Hyde Park, added to which disadvantage on my side he brought his horse to the post in a complete lather.
Notwithstanding my mistake, we started, and, as I had expected, I was beaten, but he did not get away from me until we had run eighty yards, and then he splashed the mud in my face, as the ground was much stoned by rain. It was in Hyde Park,
and—not much to my credit—on a Sunday morning.
Races between pedestrians and equestrians have,
of course, been a familiar spectacle in the great circuses, but then these are probably 'arranged affairs'
and the horses are not flyers.

"A singular story of equine sagacity and emulation, perhaps almost without parallel in sporting annals, is the following: In September, 1793, at a race at Ennis, in Ireland, Atlanta, a mare belonging to Mr. Eyre, took the lead of three other horses entered for the race. She had, however, scarcely run half a mile when she fell and dropped her rider.
Recovering herself immediately, she dashed forward riderless, and preserved the lead to the end of the heat, during which she passed her stable and the winning post twice; nor did she stop until the flag was dropped to the winner; then after trotting a few paces she wheeled around and came up to the scales to weigh. During the race she frequently looked behind, and quickened her pace as she saw the other horses gaining on her."

THIRTY LEADING HORSES.

Through his success in the valuable Metropolitan Handicap Jack Atkin was elevated into a long lead of the winning horses of the year. From thirteenth in the list Transferred up to sixth place, and Madrieno's last winning race made him a member of the distinguished thirty. Including the racing of Wednesday the record of the thirty best winners
stands as follows:

NOTES OF THE TURF.

Mr. Francis Nelson of Toronto, will be the steward representing the Buffalo Racing Association at the Kenilworth meeting, which follows Hamilton.

James McLaughlin, Jr., a recent arrival at New York from Pimlico, is arranging to race ten of his horses on the northern circuit. Nanno, Glaucus and Ferryland, winners at Pimlico and Reming are in the string.

W. T. Overton, Milton Young's three-year-old chestnut colt which finished second in the Bluegrass Stakes Tuesday in his first start, was purchased from H. R. Baker last fall for $5,000. He is by Lackford—Right Wild and seems to be a good horse.

R. L. Thomas, the Kentucky owner, who has some good horses in charge of Henry McDaniel, may send some of them to be campaigned on the Canadian circuit. The frequent suspension of jockey Shilling, who rides for the stable, has been a handicap on its operation recently.

James McCormick's five-year-old gelding Saylor injured his hip and stifle so seriously when he fell and struck a post in a race at Jamaica Tuesday that it will be a long time before he can be raced again. Eddie Dugan, who was thrown in the accident, had a most remarkable escape.

Grover C. Hughes, who with his brother J. T.
Hughes, races a string of horses under the name of Hughes Brothers, has decided to try his luck in the Goldfield and Rawhide, Nev., territory. Poor health has led him to make the change and in future the Hughes horses will be trained by J. T.
Hughes.

BETTING AND ITS STATUS IN LAW.

with great respect, that the learned governor has entered the arena without giving full study to the question in its relation to other offenses. If legislation is deemed important in this regard the offense of gambling should be punished by a fine, or made a misdemeanor, and not a felony. Governor Hughes in his enthusiasm apparently thinks that gambling is one of the most heinous crimes that exist in the calendar, and hence he pays no attention to the distinction which I have pointed out. In the arguments which I made in the Court of Appeals upon these questions, I assailed the 351st section of the Penal Code because it created a discrimination in favor of betting on the race tracks and against the pools, making the latter felonies. I firmly believe that the 351st section should be repealed and that no law should be made which will hereafter constitute gambling of any sort a felony instead of a misdemeanor.

"The punishment for gambling under the 351st section of the Penal Code is more severe than that provided for offenses of greater moral delinquency or public wrong, such as 'embury'—improperly influencing a juror (section 25, Penal Code), 'conspiring to commit a crime' (section 168, Penal Code), 'indecency exposure' (section 168, Penal Code), 'petit larceny' (section 335, Penal Code), which are all misdemeanors.

The congress of the United States followed the ordinary course of domestic and foreign legislation in this respect, and we find that it provided that the act of gambling should be punished by a fine of $500 or imprisonment of not more than ninety days, or both. This places the offense in the grade of misdemeanors. For some reason or other best known to Governor Hughes he has abdicated his functions
as an executive officer of this state and has gone upon the stump to carry out his policy to have all gambling on race tracks bitterly punished.

"It seems to me, with all respect, that the first thing that the legislature should do is to repeal the 351st section of the Penal Code, under which no conditions, I believe, can be sustained against persons who keep pools, because of its unusual severity. I do not find, from an examination of the daily papers, that there is any great public sentiment back of Governor Hughes' movement. Of course, everybody will go to hear him speak and applaud him, because the Americans are very polite and are very fond of cheering. They look upon these performances as a species of circus, and when Mr. Bryan at the last election made speeches throughout the country the places where he received the most applause, where he thought he was most effective, gave strong majorities against him. There are always individuals in a community consisting of sensational preachers and hybrid societies ready to enter into a crusade for the extirpation of vice. It is most beautiful in theory, but in practice it is impossible and visionary. What we need is to make these venial acts such as gambling, prostitution and rum drinking as innocuous as possible, and a true legislator and humanitarian can do no more.
"If the people of this state are in favor of the abolition of race track betting, let it be attested by a plebiscite—a rousing public vote: In the meantime I regard this movement, if successful, as merely chasing a rat out of one hole into another."

RESTRICTING COLORS IN AUSTRALIA.

From Australia have come many useful devices
now generally used in racing and the West Australian Turf Club is going in for a revised list of colors and at their last meeting decided that eleven colors only will be allowed to be combined for racing, they being white, black, brown, blue, green, tarn, red, pink, orange purple and lilac. Distinctions allowed will be sleeves, sashes, spots and hoops. The caps must be of the foundation color, sashes and hoops four inches wide and spot four inches in diameter. Similar conditions have been in vogue at the Sydney Associated Race Club meetings for twelve months.

ANSWERS TO QUERIES.

[Communications without names and addresses of senders will not be answered or noticed; nor will any answers be sent by mail.]

A. C. St. Louis, Mo. You should have been paid $19.68 to be exact.

G. G. Chicago. Superman lost it. Only the horses named in a parlay count.

T. J. R. Chicago. An entry is one or more horses.
When one bets on an entry without naming the race, the bet attaches to the first race in which an entry belonging to the stable starts.
